Atomic Scientists Stir Up Congress

President's Appeal to Britain To Open Palestine to More Jews and Struggle With Tax Cutting Keep Lawmakers Busy

By MAX HALL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(P)—Men who caused the two greatest explosions in history got their chance to create a stir in Congress today. Hundreds of scientists who worked on the atomic bomb had joined in demands that their spokesmen be heard on President Truman's atomic energy bill.

The result: five noted scientists—Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Dr. J. R. Oppenheimer, Dr. Harold C. Urey, Dr. Leo Szilard, and Dr. H. L. Anderson—were scheduled to speak before the House Military Committee today.

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

If I am not mistaken the coloring of the trees in the hill region will be nearing its best by next Sunday, or it may be that another week may elapse before the colors are at their best.

However, the rainy weather, followed by frosts, have combined to reduce the riot of color this year, and from now on the leaves will be falling fast and the colors will vanish in a shorter period than usual this year, particularly if additional heavy frosts come within the next 10 days.

Already there is much color in the hills, but indications are it will not be up to standard this fall. In this city many of the maples are taking on their beautiful autumnal hues and one of the most beautiful is on North Street at the side of the First Baptist Church.

Many Fayette countians who are not too fearful of their tires going out will join the procession into the hill counties during the next 10 days or two weeks to drink in the beauties of the wooded hills.

Nick Vrettos, proprietor of the Goody Shoppe, is very happy over the fact that he has received a letter from his parents, Tom and Mary Vrettos, and his brother, Aristide, from whom he had not heard direct for five years.

They are located in the state of Thebes, Greece, and were victims of the inhuman German invaders, who, torturing Nick's brother, broke his arms so that one is useless.

Nick's parents and brother are now in much better health and were delighted to hear from Nick who had been unable to get word to them until after the war and the American Red Cross, through the Fayette County Chapter, assisted him.

HUNGER STRIKERS IN PENITENTIARY

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(P)—Thirteen prisoners, kept in solitary confinement at Eastern Penitentiary, started their tenth foodless day today—refusing to eat unless prison officials let them see movies and permit them access to the exercise yard.

Deputy Warden Frank G. Martin said all 13 have taken water since they went on the hunger strike.

Eleven of the inmates tunneled under the prison wall and fled the jail April 3.

"They want another chance to escape," Martin said.

A Hospital Needed Here

Within three short weeks the people of Fayette County must decide at the polls by their vote on Tuesday, November 6, whether a modern, well equipped Fayette County Memorial Hospital, so named in memory of our fallen service men during the war, shall be constructed and operated here.

Probably not in many years to come will Fayette County have a more favorable opportunity to obtain such an institution at such a low tax levy. This levy, only seven-tenths of one mill, means just 70 cents per year, on each $1,000 of taxable property.

As an example if a citizen's property is on the tax duplicate for $1,000 the tax would be 70 cents per year, 35 cents each tax paying period. Since most property is on the county tax duplicate for far below its real value, it is estimated that the average taxpayer will actually pay from one to three dollars per year, half of this amount being paid each six months.

There are few families in the county which would ever regret paying this small sum as a guarantee of protection such as a hospital would offer them in case of need. There may be times when a family would be glad to have paid a thousand times this amount in order to save a life or help prevent a long siege of illness which prompt hospital attention might be able to bring about.

The reason for this low tax levy is because of Fayette County's exceptionally high financial standing with practically no indebtedness, and an exceptionally low tax rate. This situation enables the county to sell its bonds for a hospital at a very low rate of interest and probably at a premium. This assurance comes from some of the largest leading bond houses of the country.

Another great advantage in the location of a well regulated hospital here would be that the present small group of overworked doctors of the county would get much needed help. Other doctors who now hesitate about locating in a community where there are no hospital facilities, would find this place much more attractive for entering professional work here if such an institution existed.

That this statement is true is found in information which has come to the attention of the hospital committee within the past two weeks. Two able young physicians, being released from war service, one of whom formerly practised here and was highly regarded, the other with a fine record, have indicated that they would like to locate in Washington C. H. but will only start practice where there is a hospital or where a hospital is likely to be established soon.

For years Fayette County has been facing a growing need of hospital service and more doctors. The proposed hospital will help solve a big part of this problem which is becoming alarming to many thinking citizens.

How can we afford to reject this chance to do something which can become one of our county's greatest assets?

Vote for the hospital bond issue on Tuesday, November 6, the next regular election day.

A 65 percent vote of the total vote cast on this issue, is necessary to pass the bond issue and insure a well equipped hospital here.

We cannot afford to let petty criticism, or selfishness, stop or hinder a movement of this kind for the public good.

Fate of Jap Emperor May Be Left To People

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(P)—President Truman said today it would be a good idea if the Japanese people had an opportunity to decide the fate of their emperor in a free election.

He also told his news conference this government is in correspondence with all interested governments in an effort to break the stalemate resulting from the London conference of foreign ministers.

These formal consultations, he added, also involve efforts to get a full attendance at next Tuesday's meeting here on an American plan to set up an Allied advisory body on Japanese occupation. Of ten governments invited, only seven have responded.

Russia has not accepted, asking instead that Big Four control of Japan be provided prior to such a conference.

The president said he believed the situation would be worked out. He emphasized that not only were the big powers represented at London involved in correspondence, but all the others interested in Far Eastern questions.

No additional "Big Three" meeting is contemplated, he stated.

More Jap Gold and Gem Caches Found—Ban Clamped On 'Dope'

TOKYO, Oct. 18.—(P)—Huge, hidden Japanese fortunes in diamonds and precious metals were scooped up today by American occupation forces, who moved at the same time to stamp out one of Japan's great sources of wealth—the illicit narcotics industry.

Allied headquarters froze narcotics stocks in Japan and Korea and banned production of narcotics-yielding plants, estimating by that one move to have cut off more than 90 per cent of the world's illicit narcotics traffic.

As a precautionary measure—possibly in view of the winter of hunger facing the Japanese—American troops in a four-day house to house confiscated more than 20 truck loads of hidden Japanese arms and ammunitions.

PERON RETURNS TO ARGENTINA

Country in Turmoil as Grip of 'Strong Man' Tightened

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 18.—(P)—Nation-wide strike by 500,000 members of the General Confederation of Workers who supported Col. Juan Peron, former vice president, in a new surge to power, today brought nearly to a stop Argentina's industrial and commercial activity.

A high source said the Argentine high seas fleet had moved out of its base at Puerto Belgrano, 500 miles south of Buenos Aires.

Destination of the fleet was unknown, but Adm. Hector Vernengo Lima, a leader of the movement which ousted Peron on October 9, was in turn thrown out of office yesterday in the political upheaval which saw Peron returned to a position of dominance.

The strong man of the military government forced the formation of a cabinet of his supporters and friends, and hailed a general strike (Please Turn to Page Two)

NO MANSLAUGHTER FOR MAJOR'S WIFE

Superior Court Dismisses Mrs. Imogene Stevens

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 18.—(P)—The charge of manslaughter placed against Mrs. Imogene Dumas Stevens, attractive 24-year-old wife of a New Canaan army major after she shot and killed a Norwalk sailor last June, was dismissed today in Superior Court.

Lorin W. Ellis, Fairfield County state attorney, told the court he had been "forced to conclude that there is reasonable doubt, or more" regarding Mrs. Stevens' guilt.

Coroner Theodore E. Steiber had held that the former Texas girl who married Paratrooper Major G. Ralsey Stevens III, her second husband, while he was stationed in Oklahoma two years ago, was criminally responsible for the death of Mrs. Albert Kovacs, 19, who was killed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milton at New Canaan.

The coroner said the shooting occurred "in an aura of sex re-creation, beer and window smashing."

Neither Mrs. Stevens nor her counsel was in court today.

Coal Strike Called Off But It May Be Some Time Before Production Back To Normal—Everybody's Happy Over Mine Situation—Power Shut-down in Michigan Serious

(By the Associated Press)

CIO workers struck at consumers power company plants in Michigan today but electric power continued to flow to industrial and domestic consumers in the affected area of 2,000,000 inhabitants.

Six thousand state troops were ordered to stand by along with Michigan's 400 state police after the walkout which started at 8 A. M. (EST). Two hours later the company reported that except for brief interruptions normal power loads were being maintained.

Affected sections include virtually all industrial southern Michigan except Detroit, which has other power sources. Operators of boilers and turbines in the huge Zilwaukee plant near Saginaw, which furnishes power for the rich Saginaw Valley, remained away from their jobs but the company reported the plant still was operating "as best we can" with the men who stayed on duty.

The utility workers involved in the dispute, over a 30 cents an hour wage rate increase demand, supply power for nearly all of Michigan's major cities outside Detroit, serving communities in 57 of Michigan's 83 counties. Hundreds of factories have indicated continuation of a strike would force them to halt operations.

Coal Recovery Slow Across the nation the number of workers away from their jobs by stoppages was around 480,000. (Please Turn to Page Two)

MARCUS ISLAND BASE READY FOR AIRLINE

Islands Searched for Allied Personnel

GUAM, Oct. 18.—(P)—Marcus Island—a link in the proposed shortest all-weather air route to the Orient—has been cleared of Japanese and will be ready to receive its first planes within a fortnight.

Vice Adm. George D. Murray, Allied commander for the Marianas, disclosed also in an interview today that 1,600 starving Japanese had been returned to their homeland in a "mercy evacuation" from Woleai Island, where it is estimated 4,000 died last year.

Operations have begun to weed the Japanese out of all the islands of the Western Pacific, Admiral Murray said. Search teams are combing every island and atoll for Allied survivors of shipwrecks and plane crashes who may have found refuge or have been imprisoned.

MacArthur Rocks Do-nothings In Washington With Bomb For Unified Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Gen. MacArthur's address of final victory sounded to the uninitiated public as if he was merely talking abstract strategy—a necessary new strategy of complete integration of army, navy and air force.

He said this was the lesson he learned from the war as well as Yamashita who contributed his part of Jap defeat to lack of land, sea and air coordination.

This address was actually a verbal rocket bomb, a directed missile, which hit Washington in what might be called a strategic if invisible spot. The joint chiefs of staff held an unreported secret meeting a week earlier (October 9) and failed to do anything about creating just such a combination of our forces into single department. Since last April they have been (Please Turn to Page Seven)

NEW METHOD FOR MAKING HIGH OCTANE 'GAS' NOW

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18.—(P)—Perfection of a new type of cracking unit makes possible small-scale production of high octane gasoline, formerly produced solely by large refineries, says Dr. Gustav Egloff, research director of the Universal Oil Co., addressing local members of the American Chemical Society last night.

"However," Dr. Egloff reported, "it is up to the automotive engineers to build high-pressure engines to use the high octane gasoline refineries are able to produce."

DEATH PENALTY TO BE DEMANDED IN ALLIED TRIAL

International War Trial Court Gets 35-word Document Accusing Hierarchy

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—(P)—The most sweeping indictment in history, changing a criminal conspiracy to war against the world, was filed today against 24 of Hitler's Nazi Hierarchy and leaders of his army staff.

The 35,000-word indictment was presented in the first international war crimes court, as the initial step in the trial by which Allied prosecutors expect to send Goering, Hess, Jodl and their cohorts to their death.

The document charged mass murder and pillage, multiple crimes and atrocities against millions of persons and dozens of nations.

It was even more important in its broad aspects. It sought to establish in the pages of history a clear warning—that a conspiracy to make war is a crime against humanity.

One name is conspicuously missing from the list.

It is mentioned frequently throughout the 25,000-word text of the indictment, however.

The name—Adolf Hitler. The Allied prosecutors who drew up the indictment ventured no guesses as to his current address.

The German general staff and the high command of German armed forces were among six German organizations which the presiding judge of the austere opening session, Maj. Gen. I. T. Nikitchenko of Soviet Russia, said the prosecution would seek to convict next month when the accused war criminals go on trial in Nuremberg.

The indictment was filed by prosecutors of the United States, Russia, Great Britain and France with judges of those nations. The defendants will have 30 days to prepare defenses.

Of the politicians, militarists, industrialists, diplomats and other functionaries who participated in Hitler's supreme bid for world domination, all but Martin Bormann are in the Nuremberg prison.

BODY OF CLEVELANDER IS FOUND NEAR TOLEDO

TOLEDO, Oct. 18.—(P)—The body of Peter Yopko, 33, of Cleveland was found near here yesterday and police expressed the theory he had been taken for a ride, robbed and thrown from an automobile.

Police said his brother, Roger Yopko, also of Cleveland, claimed the victim was carrying about $150. Police found $6 on the body. Yopko told police his brother last was seen in Cleveland Tuesday night.

BODY OF DROWNED WOMAN IS IDENTIFIED WEDNESDAY

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18.—(P)—The body of a woman found in Lake Erie was identified last night as that of Miss Mabel Coburn, 30, of Cleveland, missing from her home since Monday night. Police said they were informed Miss Coburn suffered a nervous breakdown in July.

WORLD TODAY

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.

(Substituting for McKenzie)

As it becomes increasingly evident that the "secret" of the atomic bomb lies principally in the ability to construct plans for its production, talk of what to do about it turns more and more on some method to prevent man from poisoning himself with the fruit of his own labors.

The Dublin, N. H., pronouncement by a group interested in world peace, that a federation of the world is the only answer, is a natural reaction. It is as though they said that man, driven by this new fear, must now decide to do at once what he has known for ages that he must do in the end. Alfred Tennyson, who predicted almost 100 years ago that, after the world's "air navies" had "rain'd a ghastly dew," there would be accomplished a federation of the world, was not the first to express this dream. It has been repeated so often as to become almost a truism. But it usually is considered something for the ultimate rather than the present.

The Dublin meeting presented an example itself, in a way, when Justice Owen Roberts and some of its other leaders felt unable to agree with the majority in its willingness to scrap the United Nations organization. The minority preferred to take the thing step by step, with an initial union of the United States with other nations which already have adopted liberty for individuals.

That apparently would mean, so far as major powers are concerned, Britain and the United States, and would be mere formalization of a union which already exists in practice.

The inevitable result of such a step now would be a return to prewar attitudes by Russia, who felt herself forced into a pact with Germany when she decided, rightly or wrongly, that France and England were encouraging Hitler to move east instead of west. Russia's ideological war with capitalism is still a very real internal issue, regardless of how fuzzy the lines between her own system and capitalism have become. She has long felt herself surrounded and her almost certain reaction to any greater formalization of the present Anglo-American alignment would be to back up, drop co-operation, perhaps hoping for the best but preparing herself for any possible unfriendly manifestation.

If the nations could not agree at San Francisco to give all nations an equal position before an international control body, there is no indication that anything can be done along that line immediately under the fear of atomic energy. The Dublin proposal for a world government ruled by the General Assembly of Nations, instead of by a few great powers as under the UNO charter, certainly strikes at San Francisco's greatest disappointment.

If the atomic bomb were a secret which could be kept there would be the possibility of an Anglo-American "peace ultimatum" under which punishment for starting a war, or for one nation establishing hegemony over another through military might, would be swift and certain. But with the situation as it actually exists, the UNO charter, with its hopes for revision, plus some specific agreements on atomic power, seem about the best practical hope.

LAWRENCE COUNTY JAIL FILLED TO OVERFLOWING

IRONTON, Oct. 18—(P)—Dr. J. W. Payne, Lawrence County health commissioner, said yesterday he plans to discuss with the County Health Board the advisability of issuing an order prohibiting incarceration of any more prisoners in the county jail here. He described the jail as unsanitary, a menace to health and unfit for human habitation because of its antiquity and structural defects.

Built to accommodate 39 male prisoners, the jail has housed as many as 60 at one time.

SABINA CHURCH TO CELEBRATE 105TH BIRTHDAY

First Log Structure for Church Of Christ Was Built In 1840

The Sabina Church of Christ will celebrate its 105th anniversary Sunday with special services throughout the day beginning with a Sunday School rally day and ending after a special song service to begin at 2:30 P. M.

The growth of the church from its first log building in 1840 to its present brick church built in 1879 will be traced in a history of the church to be presented by Miss Naomi Syferd.

All former pastors, officers and members of the church are invited to attend all services.

Built In 1840
The first site of the church—the log building constructed in 1840—is where the present AME Church in Sabina stands now. After its beginning, the church was closed for a time and in 1858, a frame structure was built on the same site.

During the ministry of Rev. W. D. Moore, the frame church was sold to the AME church and the congregation purchased the ground at the corner of College and Washington Streets on which the nucleus of the present brick building was erected in 1879. In 1906 and 1907, the church was remodelled and Sunday School rooms were added during the ministry of Rev. Britton.

Oldest Member
Mrs. Jane Mills, 94, is the oldest living member of the church and is planning to attend the anniversary meeting Sunday. She remembers attending Sunday School and church in the frame building where the colored people now worship. The first minister she remembers is Rev. John Irwin.

No ladies' aid or missionary societies are functioning in the church now. Instead, the 12 organized Sunday School classes take care of the work recently left to the two organizations.

The average attendance at Sunday School now is 110 and slightly less than that for church. The present pastor is Rev. E. J. Meacham.

Anniversary Program
The program for the 105th anniversary celebration Sunday begins at 9:30 A. M. with a Sunday School Rally Day. A duet by the Bottenfield sisters, Patti and Virginia, recognition of the oldest members present, recognition of eight past superintendents of the school and a piano solo by Jack Burris are scheduled for the Sunday School program.

During the worship hour, which begins at 10:30 A. M., Rev. Meacham will deliver a special message, followed by communion service. Miss Carole Rockhold of Columbus and her sister, Mrs. Canner Johnson, will sing a duet.

A basket dinner at 12:30 P. M. will give old members and visitors a chance for visiting before the special song service to begin at 2:30 P. M.

Several former pastors, including Rev. Hubert Snyder of New Antioch and Rev. F. H. Smith of New Vienna, are to give special messages and a history of the church will be read by Mrs. Naomi Syferd.

Marcella Cline will play a violin solo; Rev. C. E. Rice of Lees Creek will sing a solo and a quartet—Virginia Van Pelt, Mary Lou Van Pelt, Betty Van Pelt and Robert Van Pelt, will sing.

FEWER NEW RADIOS TO BE ON MARKET

Reconversion Difficulties Slow Production

CHICAGO, Oct. 18—(P)—Reconversion difficulties have been slowing down essential parts of the radio industry and it appeared probable today far fewer new sets than anticipated will be available for the nation's Christmas trade.

The hopes of some prospective buyers that new models would incorporate a lot of the war-born radio advances seemed likely to be dashed.

Frank A. Hiter, senior vice president of the Stewart-Warner Corporation, told newsmen on a nation-wide survey of reconversion problems that manufacturers were aiming at a set considerably improved over the 1941 model, but not a "wonder machine." It would reach the public at 1941 prices.

Ohio Penitentiary Inmates Give 6,690 Pints

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18—(P)—Ohio Penitentiary's 3200 inmates donated 6690 pints of blood during the war, the largest total of any penal institution in the country, the State Welfare Department reported today, and ranked sixth in per capita donations.

The state's three prisons for men and the Marysville Reformatory for Women gave 14,614 pints, or nearly 15 percent of the total of 100,695 donated by 70 federal and state prisons participating in the Red Cross program.

Mansfield Reformatory gave 3,960 pints to rank fifth in volume and fourth in per capita donations; London Prison Farm 3,401 pints to rank ninth in volume and third in per capita. Marysville Reformatory gave 563 pints.

A New World

These are stirring times. Events occurring now, both domestic and foreign, may be the most interesting and important that have ever developed in this world. There are inventions, and social and political movements, and revelations of many kinds, such as the world never saw before. And there is unprecedented activity in this country, especially, as it seems to take the ball of modern enterprise and run away with it.

There was a period, several hundred years ago, when there developed in Europe what was called the "new learning," although it was really old. Fascinating things and processes were discovered by the nations of western Europe in books and relics inherited from the ancient Greeks and Romans; and from them, modern Europe was aroused, enlightened and invigorated. But the things arousing interest now are mostly new—facts and processes worked out in recent years, and perhaps more of them in America than in all the rest of the world together—as fresh, vigorous and progressive as if we had developed all at once a whole new race of Benjamin Franklins.

More power to them! But we should keep and use some of the old things, in spite of the charms of all the new gadgets. Otherwise a lot of us would be getting homesick and feeling entirely out of place in this incredibly modern world.

Two Wise Men

A great many Americans, reading General Marshall's report to the nation on the conduct and conclusion of the two great wars in which the United States has recently been engaged, must have felt in it the spirit and wisdom of George Washington, as revealed in the latter's Farewell Address. The General, as modest as he is capable, would make no claim to equality with the Father of His Country; but it is surely not too much to say of him that he stood foremost among the defenders and guiding spirits of this nation in the most critical time since our Civil War, and possibly the most critical period since the American Revolution.

For General Marshall is not only a great military leader, but a man of political wisdom and human understanding. One statement of his seems particularly worth preserving and keeping in memory through the coming years. It is this:

"We finish each bloody war with a feeling of acute revulsion against this savage form of human behavior, and yet on each occasion we confuse military preparedness with the causes of war and then drift almost deliberately into another catastrophe. We may elect again to depend on others and the whim and error of potential enemies, but if we do we shall be carrying the treasure and freedom of this great nation in a paper bag. We can be certain that the next

What Hangs Over

Well, we Americans and a couple of trusted foreign friends apparently have the atomic secret at last, and can produce the tremendous power of which it is capable. It was a great job to work out that problem. But if our scientists can produce it, others can if they will take the time and trouble to discover the know-how. And a sad world it would be if, when enemies or envious rivals tackled the job—as they probably will sooner or later—we then went at each other's cities in a grand sweep of mutual destruction.

"Atomic secrecy is bunk" says a newspaper commentator. But atomic power is not bunk, and it may be used by other men and nations with the skill to make it and the will to use it. And apparently there is no sure safety for this wicked and foolish world unless, before our real or potential enemies get the secret and turn it loose on us, we all get together and enforce world peace.

Some guessers say it will take five years, for the danger to break over us, and others think we might avoid it for 25 years. In either case it is another Sword of Damocles hanging over our heads.

A Painful Kidney Ailment

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

ONE of the most painful disorders that affect mankind is renal colic. The condition starts suddenly and the pain is sharp, usually beginning in the back and passing downward into the groin and lower part of the abdomen. However, not all cases are typical. In some instances the pain may be in the back or in the lower part of the abdomen alone.

The most common cause of renal colic is the formation of a stone in the kidney. The pain occurs when the stone passes from the kidney down the ureter, which is the tube that leads from the kidney to the bladder. However, there are other causes and it should not be assumed that when renal colic occurs a stone must be present.

Determine Source

In each instance of renal colic it is necessary that the patient be completely studied to determine the source of the trouble. A complete examination and X-ray plates of the kidney, ureter, and bladder.

To make the latter, the doctors inject a certain substance into a vein and after some period of time take the X-ray plates. The material is excreted into the kidneys and, when the X-ray is taken, the kidney, ureter, and bladder are clearly visible in the plate.

Seen in X-Ray

If, perchance, there is some blocking of the flow of the urine at the point where the ureter empties into the bladder, it will be seen in the X-ray plate. The ureter will be swollen or distended, and the pelvis of the kidney, or that part where the secretion collect before they empty into the bladder, will also be increased in size.

Sometimes blood vessels are out of their normal position and pass over the ureters. These blood vessels may produce sufficient pressure on the ureter to block the flow of the kidney excretions, and renal colic may develop. Sometimes a kink will occur in the ureter which blocks it. In other instances, the kidney itself may get out of its normal position and become twisted. This will also produce blocking of the ureter.

In view of the fact that there are so many different conditions which may produce renal colic, the importance of a complete study should be borne in mind whenever such an attack occurs. Operative treatment is often required, but in some instances the disturbance may be relieved in other ways.

"Author's Birthday Anniversary 'VILLAGES'"

I cannot hope that Sorrow's feet forever and a day Will pass my little House of Love where latticed sunbeams stray;

But when she lays her hand at last upon the swinging latch, And steps where happy years have smiled beneath out spring-sweet thatch, Grant me, oh God, this heartfelt prayer,

That somewhere it may be Where little small-town sympathy may fold and comfort me.

The small-town sympathy that runs across the fields In blue-checked gingham aprons and with flour upon its hands, That bakes and brews, and sweeps and dusts, that wakeful serves and shields,

The little small-town sympathy that knows and understands.

Thy cities, God, are builded high with carved stone on stone, But hearts may ache and lives may droop unheeded and alone,

And souls may dwell unknown, unloved, a single wall between— Not so the quite home-sweet lives that fringe the village green. Let others reap the splendors, Lord, but give instead to me The homely round of living blent with small-town sympathy.

The little small-town sympathy that steals on neighbors feet From tiny lamplit houses down a maple-shaded street,

That lends its strength on tear-dimmed ways its own bruised feet have trod,

The little small-town sympathy—the very soul of God.

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

SANDRA KNEW exactly how hard Belinda was crying, because she knew how hard Spenser was crying. He threw himself at her in an agony of sorrow. There was no arrogant British boy, no confident child actor. There was simply a child sobbing out his hurt in her arms. Sandra did not try to stop him; nor did she try consolation of any sort. It was something he had to get out of his heart.

From then on Spenser scarcely mentioned the little girl. He wrote to her often, using Brody's post office box, and she replied, not so often as the boy wrote, however. Luckily the studio kept him as busy as a child's contract permits. He had been that rare success in his first picture, a favorite of both the public and the critics.

All the same, he had a great deal of free time in which to miss Belinda. Driving to and from the studio, rest periods, before he went to sleep at night. And, later in the summer, he spent hours on the beach between his second and third pictures, and he thought about her then.

There was a strange, almost adult, affection, and had developed because neither child was the sort who made friends quickly.

So it was only natural that all through those summer months, when Spenser sun-tanned on Santa Monica Beach, that Belinda should sun-tan beside the Mesquite swimming pool. Just as it was natural that he think about her as she was thinking about him.

Because she was thinking about him, she resented her mother's presence more than ever. But she did not let on.

She said: "The sun is nice, isn't it, Mother?" and her voice was courteous and light. She had learned that she had to behave that way to avoid constant strife.

"I suppose so," agreed Susy Adams sullenly. "At this hour, anyway." It was only six-thirty in the morning. "I don't see why desert summers have to make the morning 70 degrees and the rest of the day 115."

Belinda dared not say, "If you don't like it, why don't you leave?" She said: "But it makes swimming such a pleasure, Mother. And you love to swim."

Her mother did not reply. It was clear she had something on her mind. And now it came out. "Your father is coming home," she blurted.

"Oh," cried the little girl rapturously, forgetting her apathetic pose. Then she wondered if she really was glad; perhaps it only meant they both would be trapped. "How did you find out?"

"Never mind that. He's not clever enough to hide from me. And I'm weary of his trying. He can come back here and face things. He was shaking with rage. 'I'm sick of his evading responsibilities. Running away like a little kid. It's sickening.' She got up and dived into the pool, splashing gently, then began swimming to the opposite end.

All day Belinda watched for her father and that night she listened. But he did not come. It was the same the next day and night. And the next. Perhaps he did not intend to come after all. And then, one night something caused her to awaken. She looked at her bed-station clock. It was after three.

Because of the old Spanish construction of the ranch house she had to leave her bedroom and go into the living room before she could see what she wanted to see. There it was. The station wagon parked beneath the olive tree in the driveway. And in the little house on the cliff there was a light. She threw a light wrap about her and set out for the cliff.

As she approached the little house she realized her father was not alone, and she began to creep silently, nearer and nearer. Her heart pounded so hard when she saw her father through the window that it made her throat hurt. And then she saw her mother.

Evidently he had just arrived; he was disheveled and tired looking. Not so her mother. She was lovely in a blue satin nightgown and matching chiffon robe. Except her face. Belinda thought she had seen her mother's face only before, but never had she seen it like this.

"I should have known it was another trick," Gordon Adams said. "Sending me a wire that Belinda was sick."

"She could have been sick," snapped Susy.

"Yes, I know. I was thoughtless to go away and leave her without telling where I'd be—how did you find me, by the way?"

"A guy—just a guy—located you. I always have known what you were doing, Gordon." She gave a nasty laugh. "He said you almost fooled him with those sideburns and mustache. You must have looked like an awful fool."

"All right, Susy, you've had your fun. Now, in the morning, I'm taking Belinda and getting out."

"Oh no!" Susy had been lounging in a chair, but now she got up and began to walk about the room. Belinda, peeping in the window, despising her, could not help enjoying the beautiful, luxurious appearance she made.

"No," repeated Susy, "because if you do I'll turn you over to the police." Again she gave that nasty laugh. "Don't forget the money you stole from the safe."

"I didn't steal any money." The man's hands were deeply tanned, but he was clutching the back of a chair so tightly the knuckles were white.

"You were stealing it. I saw you."

"There was a letter," the man said hoarsely.

"Oh yes!" mocked Susy. "The letter. Tell me about that letter again. I like that story."

"Oh, what's the use? What's the use?"

"You're right. There isn't any use. But, just for your own satisfaction, I know there was a letter. I knew it all the time. And so did my lawyer. But, Gordon dearest," she jeered, "you should have taken it with you into Dad's inner office. You shouldn't have left it on the desk in the reception room where the attorney and I could find it. We didn't like the idea of Dad giving you so many stocks, so we just sort of burned up the letter." Renewed anger had made her voice more wicked than ever.

But her voice was no more wicked than Gordon Adams' face. It seemed to swell. Belinda covered her eyes.

Susy cried out: "Don't look at me like that—don't touch me," she screamed, as the man slung aside the chair he had been leaning against and started across the room.

"Then get out, Susy! Get out or I'll kill you!"

Susy Adams was not a beautiful figure now. Her rich flowing draperies made her ludicrous. And she was panting with fear as she ran down the slope toward the ranch house. Belinda heard her as she passed by her.

The little girl wanted, more than anything, to go into the little cottage and put her arms about her father. But she felt she should keep it a secret from him that she had seen his rage, heard his threat.

Still, if she thought she could help by saying she had heard her mother declare the existence of the letter, she wanted to do that. At the same time she knew, for a fact, that her mother would deny the story to the public, just as she obviously had always denied it to Gordon Adams.

Belinda stretched full length on the ground, not minding the sharp desert sand and stones or the sticky vegetation, feeling only a sense of happiness, being near her father. But just before dawn, when the desert night was still black, she went back to her own room. She did not go back to sleep.

Spenser's face bore a sated expression. "You know when I miss Belinda most? When we have jolly old chocolate sundaes for dessert. You make wonderful chocolate sauce, Sandra. Much better than Jean at the commissary."

"Thank you," Sandra realized how deeply she had been complimented. Spenser had selfishly formed a friendship with the desert chef at the studio. Sandra was watching the English boy dip up the last of the syrup when suddenly his hand froze in midair.

"Belinda!" he cried in a whisper. The little girl ignored him. She ran to Sandra. "Oh, Red, Mother is dead and they put Dad in jail. Down in La Madera. Oh, Red, it's awful. They think he killed her."

VETERANS' GUIDE

BY MAJOR THOMAS M. NIAL

WASHINGTON — You can see those honorable discharge emblems on many a uniform and in many a buttonhole in New York City.

I went through there a few days ago. The train going north from New York and then seemed half-filled with discharged soldiers on the way to their homes in up-state New York and points further west.

Our crowd of veterans is expanding.

J. W. S. Macon, asks this one: Can a veteran, discharged with a service-connected disability, get out-patient treatment at a Veterans' Administration hospital?

Yes. But, under the present rules, you can get this out-patient treatment only for the disability you incurred in service. For all other ailments, you have to be hospitalized—you can't have these other ailments treated on an out-patient basis.

As things progress, it may be possible for ex-service men to get out-patient treatment for any ailment or disability. This would help to relieve the veterans' hospital bed situation.

But that's for the future. Out-patient treatment now is only for treatment of service-incurred disabilities.

Question of R. V. D., Pensacola: I think I should appeal for a change in the type of Navy discharge I received. I understand I have an appeal. But I need help in preparing the appeal and don't belong to any veterans' organizations.

Go to the Red Cross—the local chapter. There, you should get help.

However, you'll find that any of the veterans' organizations will aid you, and even represent you before the appeal or review board—which meets in Washington. There'll be no charge and you don't have to be a member.

The Red Cross and particularly the three largest veterans' organizations are experienced in handling appeal cases. Don't hesitate to ask any one of them for help.

I'm again getting inquiries about copies of the GI Bill. Write to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, 45 G St., Washington, D. C. Send five cents in stamps and ask for a copy of Public 346, 78th Congress.

Question from A. A. M., Tuscaloosa: I'm 24, have had over three and a half years in the Coast Guard, and was honorably discharged last week. I want to take some extra training; but, as I can't show that my education was interrupted when I entered service, I don't seem to be eligible under the GI Bill of Rights. Am I wrong?

Here's a question that's being asked constantly. Despite instruction that I suppose is given at Separation Centers, there is still much misunderstanding about who is eligible for GI Bill education. It's because the wording of the GI Bill is confusing on this point. There's a chance that the wording (and the business about 25 years of age) that will be changed by Congress.

But, A. A. M. of Tuscaloosa, you are entitled to four years of training under the GI Bill. Practically every veteran with more than 90 days of service and a discharge under conditions other than dishonorable is eligible for one year.

In addition, any veteran who wasn't over 25 when he entered service is entitled to extra years of training equal to the time in service (top is four years).

So, as A. A. M. was under 25 when he entered, and was in for three and a half years, he's entitled to one year plus three and a half years. This adds to four and a half years, since that's the maximum anyone can get.

Past Presidents Auxiliary Club Have Dinner Here

Fifteen past presidents of the American Legion Auxiliary were entertained for dinner at Bud's Restaurant on Wednesday evening by Mrs. S. S. Boren who presided as hostess during the dinner hour. The long table was prettily ap-pointed and decorated along a Hallowe'en motif.

Tall dinner tapers in three-way crystal holders which had been covered with black and orange crepe paper were used to decorate, while the table was centered with a bowl of marigolds and yellow chrysanthemums.

After the delicious two-course meal was served and enjoyed, they adjourned to the Legion home for a gift exchange. The names of the individual cheer sisters were re-vealed at this time, the only meet-ing of the organization each year.

During the remainder of the time, two tables of bridge and one table of hearts were at play. Mrs. Howard Fogle and Mrs. Marie Williams won the bridge prizes and Mrs. Ray West, the hearts prize.

Out-of-town members present for the meeting were Mrs. Charles Howard of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. William Markley, of Marion, Glenn Rodgers.

FIRST NEW CARS EXPECTED HERE IN NEAR FUTURE

R. Brandenburg Gets Preview Of 1946 Chevrolet—Warns Not Many for Some Time

Ray Brandenburg, just back from Cincinnati where he had a preview of the new 1946 Chevrolet, today was bubbling over with enthusiasm for the postwar automobile—particularly the Chevrolet and Buick for which his Brandenburg Motor Sales Co., on Clinton Avenue has the agency here.

When will these new cars be available here? That was a question for which he could not give a definite answer. He did say, however, that he did not expect dealers would have them in great numbers immediately. The supply will increase to them as plant production permits.

Brandenburg was reluctant to discuss the mechanical and style features of the new car, but it was apparent in his eager attitude that he expected the formal announcement and public showing of it in the not too distant future.

He said he and other dealers in the district were confident that the 1946 Chevrolet will maintain the record of top column sales, which it attained in 10 of the last 11 prewar years, to meet the unprecedented pent-up demand for new cars.

Following the same policy as that of former years, he said the new Chevrolet would be displayed simultaneously in dealers' showrooms throughout the country.

Newspaper announcements will be made, telling when prospective customers may see the new car for the first time. These announcements are expected to be good news to motorists and to dealers alike.

Throughout the war period, car owners have been forced to get along with their old automobiles. At the same time dealers have expended every effort to service these cars, and to keep them rolling for the duration.

As for the Buick, Brandenburg said he had learned that its dealer organization, which held the industry's highest average new car sales per dealer in 1941 and with improved financial position going into the first postwar year, is geared to deliver more than 300,000 new cars at retail during the next 12 months.

The same organization, he said he had been told, will handle Buick's ultimate capacity of 550,000 annually with relatively little change in numerical strength.

Brandenburg said he had just received reports from the Buick main offices at Flint, Mich., that 98 percent of the Buick cars that were on the roads when automobile production was stopped by the war nearly four years ago are still in use.

An analysis completed by the Buick sales department shows that 1,542,725 Buicks are at present ent registered in the various states compared with 1,665,984 registered in 1941, the last count taken before production ceased February 12, 1942. Of the Buick cars currently registered, 689,282 are 1940, 1941, or 1942 models, 683,272 were manufactured in the model years 1935 to 1939 inclusive, while 143,557 are from 11 to 40 years old. Not identified as to model year were 16,612 of the total Buicks registered.

USE OF CREDIT IS EXPECTED TO TAKE UP-SWING

Relaxation of Wartime Restrictions Seen as Revival Starter

Relaxation of government credit regulations is expected to lead to a revival of money borrowing to buy cars, appliances and all kinds of merchandise, Paul Van Voorhis, manager of the City Loan Co. office here said as he explained that more time now may be allowed for the payment of most individual obligations. Credit terms now are "easier" than at any time during the war, he declared.

The situation applies to virtually all loan companies because they are under state supervision and an over-all regulation.

VanVoorhis viewed this embryonic condition as a stimulant for recovery and explained that "the wheels of peacetime industry will now turn out civilian goods, secure in the knowledge that the public will be able to buy on liberal credit terms again without disturbing to any great extent war bonds or savings."

Emergency financing for individuals faced with certain difficulties, such as sickness or unemployment, he added, is now freed from many wartime restrictions, too.

Before the war, he said, 85 percent of the people made purchases or borrowed money and then met their obligation on terms ranging from two or three months up to as long as two or three years, depending on the size of the purchase or amount borrowed.

He foresaw, however, the possibility that the postwar percentage of credit users would not be as high immediately because of limits in manufacture of things to buy and the increased amount of savings held by individuals. Yet he said he expects many will gradually use their credit in one way or another rather than cash in their war bonds and sacrifice their interest earnings on them. He also expressed the belief that few would want to wait until they had saved the full purchase price to buy things needed but unavailable during the war.

VanVoorhis contends that without credit "which enables so many people to buy so many things, those things could not be made on a production basis or offered for sale at production prices" because it speeds up business from the source and at the other end. He insists, too, that credit by an average individual "is virtually the same as saving, accumulating and progressing" because he is investing his money in goods with an obligation to pay which has a tendency to reduce squandering to a minimum.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

doing the same thing about it—nothing. They have not let it reach the public eye or ear, but suppressed the report recommending it so thoroughly that not even the president, to whom it was destined, had then received it.

There were smiles among the knowing at MacArthur's courage in coming straight out for his beliefs to the top men of army and navy, for they knew very well what he was talking about if the public did not. The rhetorical rocket therefore did not miss its mark.

MacArthur's action reminded me of Billy Mitchell, the pioneer fighting airman, who told the public years in advance what this war would be like, and got court-martialed for it. The Mitchell program for air accentuation was successfully delayed by the old goat-eyes because they caught him using fireworks and hot charges.

MacArthur's method practically dripped honey. He did not mention any report or even the joint chiefs of staff, but just set out an apparently sincere statement of facts, for which a private could not even be court-martialed.

The common story going around the capitol is that the navy is responsible for the dangerous delay. (The delay is dangerous because it will require many months to get the new integrated system in operation, and, therefore, efficient national defense is being postponed.) But I cannot accept the story of navy responsibility unless you consider Admiral King, the navy. He is on the joint chiefs of staff.

It takes 20,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity to produce one ton of aluminum.

Actors in the popular theater of Japan are regarded almost as outcasts.

and is known to be personally the leader of the opposition.

But you may recall my recent column exposing the report indicated Admirals Nimitz and Halsey favored the combination as well as MacArthur, who has now spoken out, and Eisenhower, slated shortly to be chief-of-staff in General Marshall's place. Indeed, a navy admiral signed the report. Only a retired admiral dissented.

Thus, as deeply as I have been able to penetrate the secrecy about this whole business, it is accurate only to say Admiral King, whose resignation recently was predicted in the news accounts without denial, and a retired admiral are against it for the navy.

Unquestionably, a number of navy men do believe their ap-proprations from Congress will be cut when they lose their independent status and must work on Congress through a single department head. I guess this is apt to prove true.

But for any branch of the service to put appropriations above national defense, a plan of national defense considered necessary by a clear majority of the fighting leaders, would make them subject to court-martial if I was running their service.

But sound objections have been mentioned anent the single department plan as presented by the committee of army and navy leaders who went around the world and spent months at their task of preparing details of the new arrangement. But these are technical objections, as to whether this small bureau of the army should best be combined with that bureau, where to leave this subdivision of one service or that one.

Indeed, I personally believe the plan is faulty in at least one detail, which places entirely too much work upon the proposed first assistant secretary of the combined armed services. I do not think one man could handle all the work assigned.

But to defeat the integration program for such reasons is to stumble over blades of grass and butt your head into trees. The details can be worked out.

My little bonfire under the joint chiefs of staff did not even wake them up. I wonder if the MacArthur missile will.

Super Highway Will Face Real Problems Here

'RING OF STEEL' ABOUT CITY IS ONE OF WORST

May Be Years Before Road Is Built Through This Community

Announcement out of Columbus that Washington C. H. is on one of the super-highways being planned as part of the nationwide network of interregional highways, was not news in this city, where the Fayette County Planning Commission has been going into the problem for sometime, with a view to ascertaining, if possible, how the tremendous problem could be met in this community.

At the last meeting of the Planning Commission, Perry Ford, the state director of highways, was here and answered many questions in connection with the proposed super-highway through Fayette County, as part of such a highway that would start in Erie, Penn., and extend to Cincinnati and points south and west from there.

In other words the super-highway that is planned through Washington C. H., follows the route of the CCC highway between Cleveland and Cincinnati, passing through Mansfield, Columbus, Washington C. H., and Wilmington.

A large booklet, with maps and drawings, bearing on the interregional highways, including the one through Washington C. H., was issued by the federal government in 1944.

The problem confronting Washington is regarded as a most difficult one, which necessitates providing two way traffic with one street carrying traffic in one direction, and another street through the city carrying traffic in the opposite direction.

Engineers who have looked over the situation here agreed that Washington C. H. is "ringed with steel" by the four railroads that cut through the city from various directions and make it difficult to carry a super-highway through the city that would eliminate grade crossings.

It is understood that federal funds would be used only for super-highways where grade crossings of railroads are eliminated, but it is also understood that state funds might be used in extreme cases to build such a highway with grade crossings.

To meet requirements for a four-lane highway through the city, might necessitate some disruption of present properties in the path of the new location of streets such as would be necessary for two-way traffic, or even for a single highway of width necessary to carry the heavy through traffic, it is pointed out.

County Engineer Robert E. Willis, secretary of the Fayette County Planning Commission, frankly states that if no proper two-way traffic plan could be worked out without undue disturbance of present property lines, that it is possible when the super-highway is built that it may by-pass the city.

He spoke of the Planning Commission having discussed the possible better routes through the community, and said the problem is a genuine poser for the best of engineers and planners.

The limited access that is permitted on sch super-highways, and what that would mean here, was also mentioned.

He also said that inasmuch as the interregional highway program is one that is to be carried out over the next quarter of a century, that it may be years before the highway would be built through Fayette County.

Due to the fact that the route traversed carries a great amount of traffic, and when built would probably carry as much again, the route through Washington C. H.—or around the city—would probably be at least a four-lane road, it is believed.

There is every indication that the new Washington C. H. Planning Commission will find the big problem in connection with the super-highway one of the vital questions to take up, and that assistance of the County Planning Commission and a great deal of expert advice will be needed to handle it.

For years the proposal of extending Market Street westward and carrying the west bound CCC highway traffic over it, has been advanced in some circles, but preliminary engineering showed that to build an overpass over the three railroads that must be crossed, would require a grade starting on Market Street well up toward Main Street.

It is also pointed out that the shortest possible route would mean passing through several properties, and then probably not have a suitable intersection on Clinton Avenue.

That is just one of the problems that must be worked out in connection with the super-highway planned to pass through the city and county.

Some of those in touch with the problem believe that there is just as much probability of the high-

With a Buckeye In Congress...

By CLARENCE J. BROWN

Member of Congress, 7th Ohio District

For the past ten days the Military Affairs Committee of the House has been holding secret sessions on proposed legislation for the control of the atomic bomb and the production of atom energy, while a Senate Committee has been holding open sessions on the same subjects. Scientists have told the Senators the secret of atomic power cannot be kept, but will undoubtedly become known to other nations, including Russia, from within two to five years. According to the grapevine, the Administration sponsored legislation now being considered in the secret sessions of the House Committee provides for the naming of either a commission or a single administrator, with dictatorial powers, to control the atomic bomb and production of atomic energy, and to have the authority to decide whether the secret shall be shared with others. In fact, the proposed legislation is said to grant such absolute power to the administrator or commission that many members of the committee are objecting strenuously, and are attempting to write restrictions into the measure. At the present time it is evident a majority of the Congress is opposed to turning the atomic bomb secret over to other nations.

While most scientists argue there is no defense against the atomic bomb, one group insists they have found such a defense; and it is understood Navy experts have advised members of the Naval Affairs Committee of the House there is every indication a complete defense against the atom bomb may be fully developed within a short time. According to reports, it is even now possible to explode atom bombs by radio waves at distances of as much as four miles. While some public figures, including Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace, have almost reached a state of hysteria over the danger of atomic bombs, there are others who point out all through World War II it was possible, at any time, to virtually destroy all life in any large city by the use of poison gas, but that all nations failed or refused to use it, simply because the same gas could have been used against their cities and civilian population; and that same situation may well develop in connection with the possible future use of atomic bombs.

For the first time in nearly sixteen years—or since the coming of the New Deal—legislation reducing taxes has been approved by the House of Representatives. Last Thursday, by a vote of 343 to 10, the House cut individual and corporation income taxes, and excise tax rates, for the year of 1946, by a total of five billion three hundred and fifty million dollars. The new tax bill, as explained in detail in this column last week, strikes twelve million low income individuals completely off the tax rolls, and reduces individual income taxes on others by four per centage points in each bracket, while making a similar reduction, in all brackets, on corporation income tax rates, and dropping excess profits taxes to sixty per cent. The bill also provides for the reduction or elimination of excise taxes as of July 1st next, freezes Social Security taxes at the rate of one per cent each on employer and employee, wipes out the five dollar Automobile Use Tax on June 30th, and repeals the capital stock tax on corporations. The new tax bill was designed only to give temporary relief for the year 1946, as the Ways and Means Committee of the House will start hearings in January on more permanent legislation to completely revamp the General Revenue Act and the Federal tax structure set up thereunder.

The House will have before it this week a bill to set up a gigantic airport program under which the Federal government will contribute fifty per cent of the cost of constructing numerous airports throughout the nation, up to a total of a hundred million dollars a year for ten years, with the various States, or political subdivisions thereof, paying the balance. The Senate has already passed a similar measure in which the annual Federal contribution was fixed at seventy-five million dollars a year. If the proposed program goes through some fifteen hundred airports will be newly constructed or greatly expanded during the next few years.

General MacArthur last week announced that some one million two hundred and fifty thousand American troops now in the Pacific will be returned home, and probably discharged from service, within the next six months, or by the middle of April. According to MacArthur, only four hundred thousand soldiers will be needed in the entire Pacific area after that time, of which approximately one hundred thousand will be used in Japan. Most of the men now serving in the Army of Occupation in Europe, including practically all of those having had combat duty, will be sent home within the next three or four months, as replacements are already being sent across the Atlantic. The total number of American occupation troops in Europe will also be greatly reduced.

The nation's strike situation is becoming more alarming. As this is written there is grave danger of a nation-wide coal strike which would practically wreck the re-conversion program. Telephone and transportation strikes also threaten. Congress stands ready and willing to enact any legislation which may be requested by the Administration to meet the situation. Recent action of the Fayette County Selective Service Board, at Washington C. H., in refusing to order up more young men from the farms and rural communities for induction until and unless the Federal government does something to meet the present strike situation, has received a great deal of publicity and created much comment here in Washington.

SGT. W. E. SUMMERS GETS COMMENDATION

Commanding Officer Praises Leadership on Saipan

S-Sgt. William E. Summers, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Summers, will be able to show a recommendation from his commanding officer in the war against the Japs when he goes out to get a job as a civilian when he comes back from the South Pacific.

In the army a little more than three years, Sgt. Summers has spent just about half of that time overseas, going first to Hawaii, then to the Marianas where he rose from a private to staff sergeant. He has written his parents that he hopes to get home within three months.

The letter of recommendation, addressed "To Whom It May Concern" by Lt. Col. H. D. Merrill, Jr., is self-explanatory: "Sgt. William E. Summers, reported to my Section as a private, with a specialty as code clerk and message center clerk, twenty days prior to the Saipan, Marianas Island, operation. His apparent qualities of leadership prompted me to place him in charge of a survey section for the planning and development of the permanent telephone cable system of that island.

"His attention to duty under trying and difficult conditions, which in the early days of Saipan were literally under the noses of Japanese hold-outs, better than 29,000 of which have been killed or captured since the first landings were made, was superior. This survey crew, with Sgt. Summers at the head, contributed their share to the total and for many weeks their bag of Japs killed in addition to their survey duties earned them the name of 'Delaney's Commandos.'

"I prize very much Sgt. Summers' attention to duty and loyalty. He is a fine soldier."

SEEK RECOGNITION OF NEARBY AIRPORT

'Chillicothe Airport' Would Be 10 Miles Distant

Clark Tootle, Chillicothe, and Ray Mees, Frankfort, have made application to the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Washington, D. C., for official recognition of an airport being established 10 miles northwest of Chillicothe, with the designation "Chillicothe Airport."

The airport, Tootle explained, will be located on the O. I. Tootle estate one fourth mile north of Tootle's crossroads. It consists of an L-shaped field north of the Clarksburg road, Route 277.

The partners plan to provide two sod runways, one 3,000 feet in length, lying northeast and southwest and the other 2,100 feet long lying on an almost north-south line. Portable all-steel fire-proof hangars will be erected, and it is planned to provide all necessary facilities for all types of two-engine planes. Ane hangar will be set up as an office and classroom.

In addition to providing ground school and flight instruction the field will be available for charter flights, commercial pickups and sight-seeing flights. Plans are now under way for the purchase of several government - surplus planes of various types.

WAR VETERAN WOUNDED AFTER HE COMES HOME

DAYTON, Oct. 18—(P)—Robert Hetzer, 22, who recently came home from the wars "without a scratch," was wounded yesterday by a German rifle which discharged in the hands of a 4-year-old child at play. The accident occurred as Hetzer, discharged a corporal after two years' service with the Army Air Forces, was walking home from work.

WHY PRIVATE GULLIVER SMITH WAS DELAYED...

Many a homesick G. I. can be tied up as effectively as was the legendary Gulliver by thoughtless use of long distance these days. None of us intentionally would block a returning serviceman's thrilling first call to the folks back home. But long distance lines are so busy now that a needlessly long conversation or an unnecessary call can do exactly that.

So let's all team up and clear the way for our victorious G. I.'s by doing two things:

1 Make only urgent long distance calls during the next few months when circuits will be jammed with servicemen's calls home.

2 Be Brief. When others are waiting, the operator will remind you by saying: "Please limit your call to five minutes."

NEW ELK ROOMS DECORATION IS NEARLY FINISHED

Cherry Hotel Building Is
Site of Headquarters for Lodge

When the Elks move to their new headquarters in the Cherry Hotel Building, possibly the first of November, they will find four rooms freshly painted, papered and clean as a pin.

A men's lounge and a ladies' lounge, each with its own entrance are at the front of the new headquarters. The men's has tan and blue walls while the ladies' lounge has walls papered in green striped companion paper. The dressing room which adjoins the ladies' lounge is decorated in grey and yellow.

The clubroom, immediately behind the men's lounge includes a telephone booth and a kitchen. The lodge room is in the room which formerly was the Cherry Hotel dining room.

Very little furniture has been brought to the new headquarters yet but by the time of the formal opening, all the floor lamps, tables, comfortable chairs and other furnishings will be in place.

Fire Chief George Hall Has Many Suggestions That Are on the Beam

Fire Chief George Hall, in a follow-up warning to the public on fire prevention, has issued the following statement in connection with Fire Prevention Week:

"Fire prevention is one of the most important means we have of keeping every element of industry in production. The fires that never happen because of adequate fire prevention do not appear on any records as contributions to our victory over fire, yet many a banner that marked a factory with an excellent production record flew because some worker observed to the letter some simple or individual precaution that prevented disastrous, production stopping blazes. Wherever, whenever, and however anyone in our city observes a rule or performs an act which prevents a fire from starting, he has helped to intern an enemy as ruthless and as destructive as any which we, as a nation, faced during the war.

"Fire prevention should be practiced in the home as well as in the factory, workshops and places of public assembly.

"We of the fire department can offer a number of facts, pointers and suggestions which if followed will prevent many fires from starting. These pointers are bound to pay dividends in life and property. We list the following as what to do and what not to do.

"Keep matches away from children, provide closed metal boxes out of reach. Teach children the dangers of playing with matches and with fire. Do not go into closets with lighted matches or candles, but use a flashlight instead.

"Don't permit rubbish to accumulate in basements, attics or elsewhere about the premises. Provide metal cans or receptacles for ashes, and don't dump them where they will come in contact with combustible materials, provide a separate can for rubbish. Never mix ashes with rubbish. Don't burn trash, brush or rubbish near buildings, fences or other property, nor permit children to build bonfires. Provide substantial metal trashburners. A serviceable wash burner can be constructed very economically from heavy galvanized mesh, with cover of same to prevent upward flight of sparks.

"Keep oily rags or waste used for cleaning purposes in closed metal cans or better still, burn them after using. Don't put 'dustless' (oil saturated) mops in closets, pantries, under stairs or in other concealed or out of the way places. Spontaneous combustion is liable to result from lack of prudence in the use of oily or greasy rags or cloth so always store them, if stored at all, in closed metal cans. Gasoline benzine, Renewal, or naphtha for cleaning (if used at all), should be used out of doors and in the day time only. Don't use them in-doors or near open lights or fires. Clothing cleaned with any of the above mentioned should be kept out-of-doors until the cleaning fluid has completely evaporated.

"According to figures submitted by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, more than seven hun-

"SHADY LADY. Universal's precocious new romantic comedy, comes Sunday to the State Theatre. Charles Coburn is co-starred with Ginny Simms and Robert Paige. George Wagner produced and directed the much-discussed picture. The story, say the advance notices, has been expertly fashioned to exhibit the talents of its three stars. An impressive supporting cast includes Martha O'Driscoll, Alan Curtis and the inimitable Joe Frisco. Others in the film are Kathleen Howard and Thomas E. Jackson. Paige is seen as a young prosecuting attorney in Chicago. In his campaign to jail a notorious night club racketeer, he meets and falls in love with a popular cabaret entertainer, Miss Simms has the latter role. Coburn, said to have the most colorful part of his screen career, portrays the elderly gambler, a card-sharp who eventually aids justice and everts a scandal. The picture's climax, the preview critics declare, is one of the season's most exciting and hilarious cinema moments. Also on the same program—"River Gang," described as an action-packed melodrama and based on an intriguing murder mystery story, "Fairy Tale Murder," comes Sunday to the State Theatre. Gloria Jean is starred in this new "Universal picture. Supporting roles are enacted by John Qualen, Bill Goodwin, Keefe Basselle, Sheldon Leonard, Gus Schilling and Vince Barnett.

dred women in one year lost their lives and the result of fires and explosions due to the use of gasoline for home dry-cleaning. These liquids quickly evaporate and form highly explosive vapors.

"A quart of gasoline has the explosive power of twenty-one pounds of dynamite. It is far better to use some good non-flammable cleaning fluid, such as carbon-tetra-chloride, or send your drycleaning to the good dry cleaner in your community.

"Gasoline, except that which is stored in not larger than one gallon containers, should be stored in buildings especially provided therefor and situated at least fifteen feet from any other building. Never store gasoline within the home or factory.

"Remember also that the use of Kerosene for starting fires on quickening fires in stoves and furnaces is dangerous. Many homes are destroyed and many persons, mostly women and children, have lost their lives as a result of the practice of kindling fires in the kitchen, heating stove or furnaces, with kerosene direct from the can or some other container.

"Don't take these kind of chances.

"Kerosene lamps and open lanterns have been responsible for many fires. Whenever possible use an electric lantern or flashlight when entering the barn, shed or other building. A kerosene lan-

RECRUITS FOR REGULAR ARMY BEING SOUGHT

Age Is Lowered to 17 Years
And Officer Will Be Here Weekly

A recruiting officer from the army will be located in the Post Office lobby here every Wednesday from 8:30 A. M. until 5 P. M. for the purpose of obtaining recruits.

Enlistments and reenlistments may be made into the regular army for a period of 18 months, or two or three years. Men over 17 years of age may enlist with written consent of parents or guardians. Members of the army of the United States, who have performed active service of not less than six months may be accepted for enlistment into the regular army for a period of one year. Any person who enlists or reenlists as a private will, on the completion of six months, be promoted. Any enlisted man in the regular army who has completed 20 years may request transfer to the ERC and remain a member of the ERC until the active service, plus the time of his membership in the ERC equals 30 years. He may be retired from the regular army at 20 years with 50 percent of his pay.

All active military service (Navy, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard) is credited toward retirement. Fractional parts of the year amounting to 6 months or more count as a complete year. Men honorably discharged and enlisted within 20 days of discharge will be enlisted in the highest grade (permanent or temporary held) at the time of such discharge, provided reenlistment is made prior to February 1, 1946. Men discharged under the point system since May 12, 1945, who reenlisted before October 28th will be reenlisted in the highest permanent or temporary grade held by him at the time of discharge. All men who have enlisted or reenlisted in the regular army since June 1, 1945, in grades lower than those held previous to enlistment will immediately be promoted to the highest grade held at the time of discharge.

Reenlistment furloughs will be granted to those who reenlist within 20 days of discharge. The length of furlough will be computed on the basis of 30 days for each completed year of service, not to exceed 90 days. Every person granted a reenlistment furlough may be paid in advance at the time such furlough becomes effective, a furlough travel allowance at the rate of 5 cents a mile for the destination from the place to which he is stationed when the furlough becomes effective, to his home and back and to the place he is ordered to report for duty. Mustering out payments are authorized for all enlisted men discharged for immediate reenlistment. Persons reenlisting within 90 days of discharge on or after June, 1945, will receive $50.00 for each year of completed service.

BIG SAFETY PROBLEM HERE IS PEDESTRIAN

Stambaugh Urges Everyone
To Watch Traffic Lights

"Our biggest safety problem right now is pedestrian traffic," Walter L. Stambaugh, the city manager, said today.

He urged everyone to watch traffic lights in crossing downtown streets and emphasized that adults as well as youngsters were guilty of crossing the streets as they pleased instead of waiting for a red light.

He indicated an educational program for pedestrians through the schools and through the police was to be worked out to correct the situation "before somebody gets hurt."

Feeder Cattle Demand Rises as Early Frost Catches Much of Corn

By JERRY TRAGER

CHICAGO, Oct. 18—(P)—Farmers are showing more interest in stockers and feeder cattle as feeding areas report large quantities of soft corn of low feeding value may be harvested. Frost already has caught some late planted corn and livestock authorities today noted the possibility that a large portion of the crop may not mature before frost date.

Some cattlemen continued to wait for lower prices on replacement cattle but others bought steadily despite unseasonably high prices. However, killers were not bidding as competitively on medium grade steers as in the spring or early summer, which gave some aid to the buyer.

The southwest wheat growing area also has entered the feeding picture not only cattle but sheep and lambs are scheduled to move into pasture in increasing numbers in Kansas and Oklahoma. Middle western farmers share the demand for lambs and many daily markets have turned into a slaughterer vs. feeder affair, with many going to feed which were headed for killing racks.

Hog news this week centered in the office of price administration's revision of live hog ceiling prices at several terminal and interior markets and country buying stations. Limits in Chicago were raised 10 cents and now stand at $14.60 for barrows and gilts and $14.10 for sows. Many terminal markets, where ceilings were raised, reported little increase in salable receipts.

Choice cattle were so much in demand this week in Chicago that traders were out at 5:30 A. M. Wednesday to get first chance at the offerings.

(USDA)—Slaughter steers and yearlings closed steady to 25 cents higher with approximately 100 loads of choice offerings bringing the $18 OPA ceiling. A short load of choice to prime 1,037 pound heifers also reached $18. Heifers held steady and cows traded steady to 25 cents lower. Bulls finished a quarter higher. Vealers were steady at $15 down. Good and choice stockers and feeders closed 15 to 25 cents lower at mostly $12.75 to $14.

Only 11,200 hogs were offered locally for first four days compared with 16,668 last week, and 30,502 the same week last year. Almost all grades of barrows, gilts and sows brought the new

GOVERNOR PROTESTS HIGH PRINTING COST

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 18—(P)—Democratic State Chairman Albert A. Horstman complained today that Gov. Frank J. Lausche's report about high printing costs had put Horstman and another printing company in "a bad light."

The governor announced Monday that the state would try to dispense this year with printing the annual reports of the superintendent of insurance.

Lausche said last year 600 copies were printed for $741, whereas this year the bids for printing 750 copies were $2,195 by the Horstman Printing Company of Dayton and $1,791 by the F. J. Heer Printing Company of Columbus.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18—(P)—Police reported a masked bandit robbed a local fur store delivery man of $352 in company money but left $650 worth of furs untouched in the back of the truck.

$14.85 and $14.10 ceiling prices.

Slaughter lambs closed around a quarter lower than last week's close with yearlings and slaughter ewes practically steady.

Lions to Play Fairmont At Dayton Friday Night

With their ranks still riddled by injuries, the Blue Lions of WHS—the entire five-team squad—today were all set to go to Dayton Friday night to assault the Fairmont High School gridder with the same lineup that ran rough shod over Hillsboro's Indians here last week to pile up a 44 to 6 victory.

That win over the Indians, the second of the season, gave the Lions confidence and their faithful supporters hope. But, there was no discounting the Fairmonters. They also racked up a win last week—a 13 to 6 victory over the tough Xenia team.

But the WHS combination, patched up though it was to fill vacancies caused by injuries, showed more last Friday night than at any time this season, with the possible exception of the Chillicothe game.

Practice sessions have been particularly hard on the Lions. They have been coming through their games with nothing more than some bad bruises. But the preparations for them have cost them the services of Jim Twining, their plugging line backer fullback, who is still limping on a sprained ankle; Marilyn Reno, an up and coming end who also is out with a bad ankle; Chuck Wyatt, who was filling Twining's shoes in a way that made the fans happy until he hurt his shoulder and Jim Jenkins, pass snagger and hard tackling end. Jenkins, however, is being counted on to play Friday night. So is little Tommy Atkins, the quarterback, despite the siege of boils he has been fighting.

Jim Liso and Brandon have been readied to take over the full-back chores against Fairmont after turning in performances that covered them with praise after the Hillsboro game.

Carroll Steele is to remain on the end he took over for the first time last week and Merritt is to continue at center. John Sagar and Bellar are spotted at the tackle posts with Dowler and Hughes in their regular places at guard.

The two speed merchants, Danny O'Brien and Jim Mitchell, are to hold down the halfback positions.

This week's drills have emphasized timing, with blocking and tackling, coming in for their full share of attention.

Neither Coach J. R. Brammer nor his assistant, Stephen Lewis, have given any indication that they plan to digress from the "T" formation and unbalanced line.

Improvement shown in blocking and tackling in the Hillsboro game raised the hopes of the Washington C. H. fans, many of whom have made plans to follow the team to Dayton.

The WHS marching band, which has won such wide acclaim for its spectacular performances between halves of the football games, will not make the trip. It put on a show at the Circleville pumpkin show Thursday night and is getting ready some fancy maneuvers for its closing appearance of the season.

SNAPPY KATE SOLD BY JUNK BUT HE GETS HALF-BROTHER FOR RACING NEXT SEASON

Elmer Junk has disposed of his interest in the high string but speedy trotting mare, Snappy Kate, to his brother, Frank Junk of the Clarksville community, but he has not forsaken the sport of harness racing.

To take her place, he has acquired her two-year-old half-brother, Harold Abbe. His dam is Lady Kate, also the dam of Snappy Kate. Harold Abbe, however, was sired by Bert Abbe, one of the outstanding pacing sires of the country, while Snappy Kate was by the well known Jack the Ripper.

Harold Abbe, Junk said, had been broken to drive but had not been trained to any extent. However, he added, unlike most of Bert Abbe's get, he shows a tendency to trot instead of pace. His new owner has not discarded the possibility of putting him to pacing with hobbles, but said he was going to await developments in next spring's training.

Junk, who comes from a family steeped in the traditions of racing, said he gets his biggest satisfaction from "making" race horses.

About five years ago he took on Doctor S. a cast off pacer, and after treating his legs and changing his shoes, raced him a couple of seasons so successfully that he was bought for racing on the big eastern tracks.

Last year he bought Snappy Kate, known to have some speed but inclined to "jump off" her best efforts. Patience in training and driving by Frank Lanum got results. While there are faster trotters, Snappy Kate finished the season with success. Junk said he had not kept a record, but said she had won "15 or 16 heats."

Snappy Kate, he said, "is the kind you get once in a lifetime . . . the kind that never fails to get a check."

He is optimistic over the prospects for development of his new horse, a big strong youngster with breeding that rates at the top.

-Spying- On Sports

By Hugh Patterson, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—Basketball seems to be on its way toward becoming our national game—at least in winter—if the southern colleges only move into the big time. . . . New England is looking for a big season with Boston College returning to action after a 20-year lapse. Holy Cross on the big time and Rhode Island State moving into the Boston Garden doubleheaders—Bill Mokray, Boston basketball boss, hopes to make up for last season's $11,000 loss by putting at least one New England team in every game. . . . Harvard and Yale won't be on those bills, of course, but the Crimson ought to do well since Wyndol Gray, who starred for Bowling Green (Ohio) last year, has turned up there as a Navy trainee and Yale won't be any worse for having Art Dakos, rated the best schoolboy player in Massachusetts last season.

Bob Nose Beat

After Bob Deubner, E. of Penn back, hustled his nose running into teammate Bob Evans in last week's North Carolina game, the coaches fearfully asked Deubner how he felt. "Oh, fine," Bob replied. "This has fixed me up just right. I can breathe as well as before I broke my nose the first time."

Entire Blue Lion Squad To Make Trip to Dayton; Businessmen Get Extra Bus

The entire Blue Lion football squad—all five teams of it—are going to go to Dayton Friday night when the boys of WHS meet those of Fairmont High School there, thanks to a few of the city's many businessmen interested in the boys.

It has been a policy of long standing to take only the first team and necessary replacements. But, these men felt the boys who provide the first and second teams with human blocking and tackling dummies day after day in practice were entitled to the trip, too. So, they started to pass the hat, so to speak. More than enough to pay for the extra bus was contributed before more than a few had been given the opportunity. Offers came from many others as they learned of the plan. They expressed regret when they learned no more money was needed.

Just how, when and by whom the movement started remained obscure. The thirteen contributors all shied away from taking credit saying simply that "we all did it." Among those to drop from $10 to $2 in the kitty for the reserves' bus were fathers of boys on the first team and men who have no sons or even children in school.

One of them, who preferred anonymity, said: "They're all a great bunch of kids. They all ought to get to go on these trips. The regulars get all the glory. The reserves have to take an awful beating in practice and never get any of the glory. Without them the varsity would not be so good. They really help make the team. But nobody ever sees how much they do. The least they deserve is a trip now and then. . . every out-of-town game wouldn't be too much. And besides, we want them."

He said there is no objection to public works programs "already recognized by Congress to be within the framework of a free enterprise economy and freedoms guaranteed by the U. S. Constitution."

"If the estimated deficit in employment should be determined by the government to be sufficiently large," Schultz said in a statement filed with the House expenditures committee, "the result would be that a substantial part of the economy of this country would be brought immediately under a federal bureaucracy, not significantly different from that of totalitarian nations."

"This would lead to the delegation of constitutional powers of Congress to the executive branch . . . Once embarked upon, such a program might possibly destroy our form of representative government."

Schultz said "while the bill declares that it is the policy of the United States to foster free competitive enterprise, two responsibilities are immediately set upon the federal government by the bill," Schultz said.

"The first requires the government to pursue such economic policies as will stimulate and encourage the highest feasible levels of employment opportunities through private and other non-federal investment and expenditure."

"The second responsibility is that of the federal government to provide such volume of federal investment and expenditures as may be needed to insure continued full employment, then such federal responsibility would go into effect to provide programs to provide jobs."

More than 40 fires a day in the U. S. are caused by electric irons that have not been disconnected.

ANGUS STEER WINS JUNIOR SHOW TITLE

Fairfield County Boy Has Best of 330 Entries

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18 (AP)—Bud, a 1,100-pound Aberdeen Angus steer entered by Nigel Mast, 19, of Fairfield County, was chosen grand champion of the ninth annual central Ohio junior livestock show and sale here last night.

The steer, adjudged grand champion of the Fairfield County Fair last week, topped a field of 330 entries by 234 members of 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America. It was sold to Albert Pick, president of the Pick Hotels, for the Fort Hayes Hotel, here at $5 cents a pound.

A 1,160-pound purebred steer entered by 12-year-old Danny Purdy from the New Albany Livestock Club (Franklin County) won the breed championship for shorthorns. The shorthorn brought 36 cents a pound.

The reserve championship award for that class went to 17-year-old Donald Duprey of near Marion. His shorthorn brought 61 cents a pound.

An entry of Miss Marjorie Kreis, 16, of Marion was awarded first prize in the Hereford breed show. The 1,160-pound purebred animal, winner of the reserve championship at the Marion County Fair Aug. 28, was sold for 41 cents a pound.

Ten-year-old Rosemary Mautz, another Marion County lass, took top honors in the showmanship contest.

Charles F. Flickinger, manager of the event, reported the show was two and a half times larger than previous exhibitions, and added 40 percent of the participants were girls.

Fayette Countians have contributed $6,075.75 to the National War Fund, which this year has a $23,000 goal, Charles Reinke, campaign chairman, said today after the first report meeting Wednesday night in the probate court room of the Court House.

The campaign is to end Saturday. Chairmen of divisions, wards and townships attended the meeting which produced a report from every group except Perry and Madison Townships and men's clubs.

By divisions, the report is: industries, $1,414; retail merchants, $1,032; county clubs, $10; women's clubs, $120; special gifts, $2,100; Ward I, $162; Ward II, $274; Ward III, $320; Ward IV, $240; Union Township, $58; Wayne Township, $28.26; Jasper Township, $34; Jefferson Township, $151; Concord Township, $37; Marion Township, $39.50; Paint Township, $46 and Green Township, $10.

Expressing his personal desire for continuation of USO-Camp Shows in the Pacific Theater of Operations, General Douglas MacArthur has cabled a message of appreciation to all Camp Show entertainers who have performed for troops under his command. Reinke said after reading a report from the NWF, which finances USO.

The cablegram sent by Gen. MacArthur to Maj. Gen. Joseph W. Byron, director of special services division of the army, and relayed to Dr. Lindsey F. Kimball, president of USO, states: "I wish to extend my personal thanks and appreciation to all personnel of USO-Camp Shows who have performed for troops under my command. These men and women who have come to this theater deserve to share the pride we feel in our victory."

"The entertainment which they provided contributed materially to the maintenance of high morale, and it is my sincere desire that USO-Camp Shows continue their work in this theater during the occupation phase which lies ahead."

WILL CASE FILED

Juanita Kneider has filed suit in Common Pleas Court making Ernest F. Melson and Bessie M. Melson defendants, to set aside the will of Benjamin F. Melson which was probated in May, 1945.

WILL QUESTION COLUMBUS MAN

Wounded Man Said He Was Shot in Washington C. H.

Sheriff Orland Hays, while on business in Columbus Thursday, expected to interrogate Louis Holliday, 29, who appeared at Grant Hospital Wednesday with a bullet wound in one leg, said he had been shot in Washington C. H., and who is now held in connection with the murder of George Boyer, 51-year-old gasoline station attendant, who was shot to death during a hold-up of his station at Fulton and Second Streets, Columbus, early Monday.

It is believed that Holliday might have been about this city recently.

It has been learned that the FBI has been after him for questioning in connection with a $2,000 bank robbery in Grand Rapids, Mich., May 30.

He was also identified by Webb Tracy, who had admitted shooting Boyer, as the man who had done the killing. Tracy repudiated a confession he had made and said it was Holliday who fired the fatal shot. Holliday admitted being near the station at the time of the shooting, but denied having any part in it. He said he ran from the scene because he did not want to become involved due to the bank robbery.

AUTO STOLEN HERE IS FOUND IN DAYTON

A Ford automobile owned by Morgan Jahn, Jr., New Holland, and stolen from near the Loudner Barbecue, Tuesday night, was found abandoned in Dayton, Thursday morning, and Sheriff Orland Hays was notified.

Yahn was called and went to Dayton to claim his car.

Ohio banks desire to make every possible G. I. loans and both veterans and bankers should try their best to work out the present difficulties of the Veterans Act, Herbert F. Koch, president of the Guardian Bank and Savings Co., Cincinnati, declared. He is chairman of the association's special G. I. committee.
